Join Dementia Research

A nationwide service that helps anyone in the UK find and take part in vital dementia research studies.

People with dementia, their carers, and anyone interested in research can sign up. It's also possible to register on behalf of someone else.

The screenshot shows the homepage of the 'Join dementia research' website. At the top, there are login fields for 'Enter username', 'Enter password', and a 'LOGIN' button, along with a 'Forgot my password/username?' link. The main header features the 'Join dementia research' logo and the NHS logo with the text 'National Institute for Health Research'. A navigation menu includes 'Home', 'About the service', 'How it works', 'Why sign up?', 'Any questions?', and 'For professionals'. The main content area has a large image of a woman looking at a laptop with the text 'WHO CAN HELP RESEARCHERS TO BEAT DEMENTIA? YOU'. Below this is a 'SIGN UP TODAY' button. A section titled 'Welcome to 'Join dementia research', a place to register your interest in participating in dementia studies.' follows, with a sub-section 'Key things you should know about the service' containing a list of bullet points: 'Sign up today', 'Answer as many of the questions as you can', and 'View the studies you match to'. At the bottom, there are sections for 'What's new' and 'Your stories'.

Why is it needed?

It is only through research that we can develop effective treatments, improve care and one day find a cure.

So if you are looking for studies to take part in, but don't know where to find them, please visit:

www.joindementiaresearch.nihr.ac.uk

What kind of studies are there?

There are lots of different studies. From looking at prevention and new treatments, to surveys aiming to improve the quality of life for people with dementia and their carers.

You do not have to take part in any particular studies.

It is always your choice whether or not to take part.

How do I sign up?

You just need to provide some information about yourself which will enable the service to match you to suitable studies.
